PERSONAL STATEMENT

I realized the simple way to act upon living is to solve more problems than to cause them. Learning design thinking let me solve problems using emotional intelligence, and involving purpose.

As long as it requires my skills. I believe a designer must first solve a problem. Only after this can a design show the creators characteristics.

Only after this can a product show a designer's personality. As much as I want to be unique and creative, I want to be a creator who knows how to collaborate and understand intergration amongst a mutidisciplinary team.
